Skins take time out

Each Redskin had his own way to spend his summer. To some it was a time for work; for others it was for play, but for some it was a time for school-related activities. For most, the summer of '85 provided a welcome break from the routine of classes.

The Redskin cheerleaders travelled to Indiana University for camp. Besides the spirit stick, they won many ribbons and a trophy for the most-improved squad. Several of our talented 'Skins chose to entertain the young and old alike by performing two children's plays in three area libraries and two adult plays in area nursing homes.

Early in the summer, members of the Math and Science clubs toured Washington D.C. Senior Teresa Eggert commented, "We saw everything. It was two days of constant sightseeing."

Seniors Bekki Sauer, Mary Spears, Kelly Bray, and Felicia Sargent attended Hoosier Girls State in June. Each girl received a certificate and a pin. Those who attended Hoosier Boys State were William Echols, Tom Lauerman, Scott Walker, and Mike Kelly.

Although most Redskins were very active during the summer, all good things must come to an end; so did the summer of '85.

School opens with changes

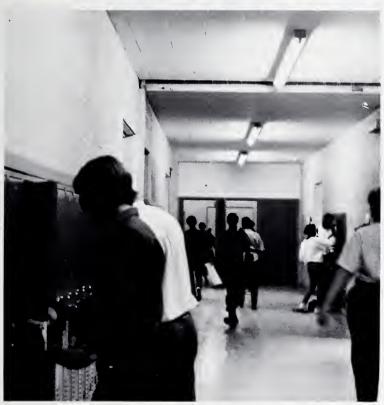

When the Redskins entered Manual in September, they encountered many changes. The normal routine — pay rental, get schedules changed, and fill out attendance cards — remained the same. Because of the construction, many students had to learn their way around again.

Freshmen had to make the greatest adjustments because high school life was completely new to them. Changing classes, learning new teachers and new classmates, and getting used to a new building are things that go along with being a freshman. Most freshmen, however, were eager to begin their four-SENIORS TIM HUGHES and Teresa McHenry look for homework before class starts.

year journey through high school. Freshman Tanisha Lacy said, "I was ready to become a freshman, even though it is a lot different than junior high."

While the start of school was hectic for the students, the faculty also had some problems to solve. Some classrooms were not finished, the gym classes met in study halls, and some rooms had no working PA system. The counselors spent many hours changing schedules, correcting errors, and making sure the students had the classes they needed.

Fortunately, the hustle and bustle did not last very long. Within a few weeks, the Redskins settled into the routine of school.

A Night to Remember

The 1985 prom was unique for Manualites. In previous years at Manual, the juniors and seniors held separate proms. For the first time the two proms were combined to form a joint Junior-Senior Prom.

The seniors selected the Airport Holiday Inn as the sight of the prom, while the tradition of the juniors decorating the ballroom was maintained. The official prom colors of blue and white shimmered throughout the ballroom; "Just the Two of Us" was chosen for the theme.

The band Promise, with Mark Peeper as the lead vocalist, helped couples romance the night away.

The manner in which the royalty was chosen was slightly altered for this prom. A prince and princess were selected from the junior class, while the senior candidates vied for the title of king and queen. As the evening wound down, the time for the crowning of the royal family drew near. For the sixteen candidates, this was a moment of excitement as they eagerly waited for names of the winners to be announced.

Danny Johnston and Kim McNeely were voted prince and princess, while 1985 graduates Doug Richards and Laura Robling were crowned as the official king and queen.

To top off the evening, a postprom was held at the Boy's Club for all seniors and their guests. Swimming, basketball, and various other activities had been planned. This gave the seniors an opportunity to socialize and made them more aware that graduation was near.

The post-prom, which lasted until 6:00 a.m., concluded with a breakfast served by the P.T.O.

Stage and Screen

The world of entertainment has been a big part of student life. Many after-school hours were spent watching television, going to movies, attending concerts, and listening to popular recording artists.

Bruce Springsteen, Tina Turner, and Motley Crue appeared in concert in Indy. Night Ranger and Alabama were major attractions at the Indiana State Fair.

Cable television provided viewers with more recent movies and greater variety than the major networks. The latest rock videos were featured on MTV, a favorite cable channel for students.

Although movie, television, and recording selections gave students variety, Redskins were loyal fans to their favorites.

BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN, Boss, appeared in concert in the Hoosier Dome.

Manual's Face Lift

The remodeling and modernizing of Manual was well under way at the beginning of the '85-86 school year. Most construction was scheduled to be completed before school began. Some minor setbacks and a brief strike caused the work to continue well into the school year.

A new art department, media center and gym added to the school's new look. Not only did the building change, but also the feelings of the students. Senior John Barron commented, "I wish the construction had been completed for our senior year. It would have been nice to finish our four years of high school in a new building."

Redskins on the Job

"Workin' for a livin'" became a popular theme for many Redskins this summer. For some, working the hot summer months provided enough money for a few luxuries. For others, a job became a familiar part of their lives along with juggling their homework obligations and after-school activities. Working and attending school caused a few problems for Manual students. Senior Stacy Pinner supported this, saying, "It gets very difficult at times trying to shift my time between school and work. The best way I've found to handle it is to take one day at a time and to go by a daily schedule."

Fast food positions were popular among 'Skin workers because of the ease of scheduling around extra-curricular activities. Others preferred to work at retail stores as stock personnel or cashiers. Whatever way 'Skins passed their time over the summer and throughout the year, for many, it was a year of working for good old minimum wage.

Manual and Eli Lilly and Company have shared a partnership in education since the program began six years ago. This partnership has been one of the most successful ones in this area. During the summer of 1985, Mrs. Sarah Bogard, the Manual Chairman of the partnership, journeyed to Washington, D.C. to tell others about this successful venture.

Eli Lilly has sponsored a wide variety of programs to enrich the Manual students. Eli Lilly sponsored a float in the 1985 "500" Festival Parade. Several Manual students were selected to ride on the float.

The Manual English department dedicated its 1985 Manual Manuscripts to Mr. Phil Mueller, Eli Lilly's representative to the partnership. Manual students benefitted from the many field trips as a part of this partnership. In February, the A.P. English class and the Histlish class attended a Shakespearean Festival at Indiana University.

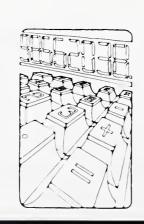

Some of the biology classes and industrial arts classes toured Eli Lilly facilities to learn first hand what they had been studying in the classroom.

Eli Lilly brought programs into the school for student enrichment. A science lab was set up in the media center for the biology classes. A mime theater was performed in the new mini-aud.

The Manual-Eli Lilly partnership was a solid one. Manual students have reaped many benefits from the combined activities.

Laboratory Experiences

If experience is the best teacher, then Redskins greatly advanced their education through various labs this year.

Some lab classes required students to conduct experiments. AP Biology students worked on several projects during the year with Eli Lilly personel as a Partners in Education enrichment activity.

Another busy lab around Manual was the computer lab. Students got practical experience with computers during their regular classroom instruction. Math, Art, and English classes all used the computer labs on a regular basis.

As a part of Orientation, freshmen spent part of the semester in reading lab, where they worked to improve reading speed and comprehension.

Manual students had a variety of lab classes in which they could enroll and receive worthwhile, practical experiences.

Students Respond to the Challenge

Throughout the 1985-1986 school year, Redskins continued to challenge themselves by enrolling in some of Manual's most demanding classes. Despite the tests, finals, term papers, class projects, and nightly homework assignments, they persevered and often stayed up late at night studying in order to be better prepared.

One of the best-known advanced classes, taught by Mrs. Marilyn Dever, was Histlish, a combination of English 5g and 6g, and advanced U.S. History 1 and 2. In this course, juniors learned to take better notes, improve their writing skills, and learned to "study." One of the major challenges in Histlish was the "blue books" which were major essay tests that have often compared to college exams.

The seniors were also challenged by the English department with courses in Humanities and Advanced Placement English. In both classes, the classics of literature were read and discussed.

Also exerting demands on students were the Math and Science Departments. Algebra 3 and 4, Advanced Math, and Calculus helped students organize their thinking processes and expand their mental capacities.

Physics and chemistry combined math skills with the laws of science. AP Biology students assisted personel from Eli Lilly, Manual's Partner-in-Education, in conducting experiments in a program for other science classes.

All in all, Manual students have achieved much academically over the years, and challenging courses, while tougher, have helped accentuate these achievements.

SENIOR Steve Minton shows his surprise over the success of an experiment in physics.

A Creative Experience

Being able to put the books aside for a class or two was a welcome relief for many students. Classes in art, music, and home economics allowed the students to do just that. In addition, these classes also gave students an opportunity to develop their creativity.

The home economics classes were centered around the more practical areas of learning. In these classes, students acquired skills which could be used immediately after high school. Students demonstrated their creativity not only in foods and clothing classes, but also in needle art.

The music department offered students a chance to develop vocal talents as well as instrumental talents

Ceramics, jewelry, drawing, and painting were among the electives available for creative students in the art department.

Creative classes gave Redskins "hands on" experiences. In these classes, students worked hard to achieve their goals and accomplished many things. Their creations were displayed often during the school year, giving the students a sense of pride in their accomplishments

Junior Christy Lewis summed up the feelings of most students. "Art gives me a chance to express my feelings in a different way."

Whether it was a piece of pottery, a quilt, a geometric design, or a melodic harmony, creative classes provided a welcome break from the academics.

Homework & Tests

Homework — a dreaded but necessary element in the high school curriculum. Each student faced up to two hours of homework a night for each class he took. While most students generally avoided the subject of homework it was the neverending task for all Redskins.

For many students, doing homework was a job done after school at home. For others, study halls provided the place to perform this dreaded task. Study hall, however, became a place for talking and playing. They are a necessary part of scheduling, however. Guidance Director Jack Brown commented, "Because of the lack of staff and the conflict between classes, it became very difficult to fit each student with a full schedule. Study hall became necessary."

Testing was another part of school. At the end of each chapter or at the end of the semester, tests seemed dreary and unwanted.

Specialized testing also took place this year. Many collegebound seniors awoke early on Saturday mornings to take the mandatory SAT. Juniors were able to prepare for this test by taking the PSAT.

No matter what kind of tests or how much homework, one could always be assured that both of these elements would always be there.

A Teacher's Day

Getting ready for class was a big part of the typical day for Manual teachers. Preparation for class included activities such as mental preparation, getting lesson plans ready, keeping records, and doing background reading.

The preparation period was an important time for teachers. Some things that the teachers could be found doing during this time were grading papers, making plans for classroom, and writing or typing quizzes and tests.

All of a teacher's work was not done during the school day or in the classroom. Most of the teachers had homework to do just as most of their students did.

A big part of a teacher's job was to determine what was to be taught that day and then to plan the lesson. "A teacher must anticipate as many problems as possible that students may incur," noted math teacher Mrs. Madora Walker.

Many teachers said that the hardest part of their day was finding time to keep up with the paper work required for the classes they taught. While the school day was a busy one for most teachers, it was not without its rewards. For Mrs. Toni Hammer, English teacher, that reward came "when an idea 'clicks' in the classroom."

Specialized Courses

To help better prepare Manualites for their future, many courses were offered that provided practical learning experiences.

These specialized courses enabled some graduates to go directly from high school into an entry level job in the career of their choosing. Students saved a lot of money by taking advantage of the vocational classes that were offered free at the high school level. They avoided having to pay the tuition at a vocational training school after graduation. For some vocations, further schooling was required, but these specialized classes in high school gave a solid foundation upon which to build.

When most people think of vocational courses, they automatically consider DECA, ICT, and OEA, which are all classes that provided on-the-job training, but these were not the only classes that helped prepare one for a career.

Other business courses such as typing, filing, machine calculation, shorthand, and data processing also helped prepare Redskins for a job in the secretarial field.

The Industrial Arts and Home Economics departments both offered a variety of specialized classes that provided students with training for the future. IN SHOP CLASS, senior Danny Johnson sweeps up sawdust while Don Moore uses the sander.

Something for Everyone

A large part of the school day for most Redskins was spent in required classes. Most students were enrolled in an English class since the new state requirements for graduation are eight semesters of English.

In addition to English, freshmen were required to take a math class, two semesters of physical education, and orientation.

For sophomores, biology and earth science were offered to meet the science requirement. Geometry was the math class that many sophomores chose to complete their mathematics requirements.

Juniors began to fulfill their social studies requirements by taking U.S. history, a two-semester course required for graduation.

To meet their graduation requirements, seniors took a government class and an economics class. In addition, most seniors took the required health class.

Although these required classes may not be the favorite class for many students, they provided students with a well-rounded education.

Memorable Times

Every Tuesday evening many Manual students could be found attending a Campus Life meeting. This was a very large and very active group of Redskins. Campus Life, an organization with spiritual emphasis, kept students busy throughout the year with planned activities, special parties, and a trip to Florida during spring break.

"Campus Life is great! It's a lot of fun. I got to meet a lot of new people," remarked Toby Merida.

Fellowship of Christian Athletes, better known as FCA, was also concerned with the spiritual life of the athlete. Many of their meetings were held at the home of their sponsor, Mr. Ray Schultz. Kim McNeely was president of the girls' huddle and Paul Colton was president of the boys' huddle. FCA sponsored a summer camp which was designed to improve both their athletic ability and their spiritual lives.

Another organization for athletes at Manual was the Block M Club. To be eligible for membership in Block M, an athlete must letter in a varsity sport.

Organizations Develop Student Interests

Manual offered students a variety of extra-curricular activities.

The Student Affairs Board served as the voice of the students. This board was made up of elected representatives from all four classes. Students Against Drunk Driving, better known as SADD, completed its second year at Manual. Their goal was to help students realize that drinking and driving do not mix.

The National Honor Society was made up of juniors and seniors who have demonstrated academic excellence. Senior Anissa Armstrong remarked, "It was an honor to have been selected for National Honor Society. The long nights of reading and studying paid off."

The Bowling Club under the leadership fo Mr. John Hurt, completed a very successful year and brought recognition to the members and to the school.

A Showcase of Talent

Lights! Camera! Action! These sounds were just a few familiar to Redskin Thespian and Mask & Wig members in 1986.

Membership in these two dramatic organizations included performing, set design, make-up and other theatrical areas.

An aspiring Thespian had to meet specific requirements including grades and participation points. These points could be attained by performing or by participating on a specific committee. Membership in Mask & Wig was open to any interested Redskin.

Hampered by construction, many productions were postponed or cancelled this year. Performed were three one-act plays, the annual Redskin Revue, and a spring play. As always, the stage crew added to the excitement by preparing the sets, lights and doing other behind-the-curtain jobs.

Thespian president Felicia Sargent said, "The year was hampered by many factors, but I feel everyone had a good time."

Creative Efforts

The Home Economics Club elected their 1985-86 officers who were Vickie Taylor, president; Vickie Ramsey, vice-president; Lorrie Petero, secretary; and Helen Taylor, treasure.

Some of the club's activities included a Halloween party, a pizza party, and a Christmas party. Students in clothing classes competed in a doll contest sponsored by the home economics department. After the dolls were displayed in the home economics display case, they were distributed by the Red Cross to needy families in the community.

Junior Lorrie Petero commented, "I feel that the Home Economics Club is a special club. It doesn't deal with math or science. It is a club that lets each young lady be herself and express her ideas and goals. It also helps us deal with everyday situations."

The Art Club's faculty advisor was Mrs. Terry Clark. Under her direction, student leaders organized and met scheduled obligations to provide the needed color for many of Manual's special events. "Art Club is a great way to make friends," said Melissa Leak, senior.

Clubs Work Together

It was a busy and an exciting year for both the Math Club and the Science Club. As soon as school was out, members of these two clubs and their sponsors, Mrs. Mary Thomas and Mrs. Madora Walker, boarded a bus for a sight-seeing excursion to Washington, D.C. The two clubs had financed their trip by selling candy and jewelry during the school year.

The two clubs also joined forces for several other activities. In the fall they had a combined outing to Brown County. Later in the year, they visited the observatory and planetarium at Butler University.

Members of the Math and Science clubs were treated to a lecture by Dr. Sampson, a guest speaker from Eli Lilly and Co. The Math Club was given a challenging problem-solving exercise by Dr. Sampson.

Something Special

"Roines builds men" or "M-A-S-O-M-A-S; we're Masomas, yes! yes! yes!" were the familiar chants that could be heard throughout Manual's halls during the two weeks pledging for these exclusive clubs.

Throughout the two weeks of pledging, daily exercises, proposals to trash cans, helicopter races, duck walks, and other crazy antics were engaged in by the men of Roines. Each day of the week was a different clothing theme for the women of Masoma. Masoma president Teresa Eggert said, "Pledging was a great time. It was the only time I could dress like Billy Idol, a pickle, a mummy, and a gladiola in school. I would emphasize these clubs to anyone looking for something different but effective in an organization." These crazy antics weren't the basic admission for the club, however. Applicants met a high GPA requirement, had a particular number of League of Honor points, and had the approval of both the club sponsor and the deans.

Once the clubs were established for the year, special services were performed for the school and the southside community. Once again, Roines hung the Christmas wreath in the front of the school and sponsored several dances as celebrations after athletic events. The Masoma girls purchased Christmas dinner and household goods for a needy southside family as one of their service projects. The traditional Homecoming mums were prepared and sold by the Masomas as well. Both of these clubs sponsored a booth at the Pow Wow.

Commenting about the longstanding traditions of these clubs, senior Billy Hair said, "It's an honor to be able to say that I was a part or Roines. I encourage others who are qualified to join and to participate in the club and keep the tradition going."

Reporters at Work

Working around the clock to meet crucial deadlines, the members of the Booster and Ivian staffs, kept the Publications office humming most of the year.

Under the direction of Mrs. Kathryn Guignard, the Booster staff published a school newspaper every two weeks during the school year. The Booster staff was headed by Felicia Sargent, editor; Mike Kelly, assistant editor; Kim Kelly, feature editor; and Paul Colton, sports editor.

"I can honestly say being an editor has had its good times as well as its bad times, but in the end the positive aspects such as meeting people, accepting responsibilities, and doing something for my school made it worthwhile," remarked Felicia Sargent.

Publishing the Ivian was a yearlong project for the yearbook staff. Under the guidance of Mrs. Louise Plummer, advisor, the Ivian staff captured the school year in pictures.

"Being an editor of the yearbook was the best thing I did during my four years at Manual. I really enjoyed putting the yearbook together. I dedicated myself to making it the best yearbook possible," commented Susie Handlon.

Students with an interest in foreign language found the French, Latin, and Spanish clubs provided them with several activities during the school year. The French Club, sponsored by Mr. Dave Phillips, sold candy to raise money for club activities like a Christmas party and a trip during spring break.

The Spanish Club and sponsor Miss Ann Manning had a Christmas party at Chi-Chi's Restaurant. The members also worked to raise money for a trip to Spain.

Cooperative Education

Many Redskins took advantage of the four work-study cooperative programs that Manual offered. These programs gave the students the opportunity to receive classroom instruction and on-the-job training at the same time.

ICT (Industrial Cooperative Training), taught by Mr. John Fox, was developed to aid in a successful transition from school to employment. "ICT is a very enjoyable class. I've learned how to handle my money, get along with others, and to work with my fellow classmates," stated senior Amy Klemm.

COE (Cooperative Office Education) was directed by Miss Barbara Boeldt. It helped senior girls locate a job doing office work while continuing to improve their office skills in school.

"COE has really taught me a lot. I really enjoyed being a part of the class. COE found me a good job and started me on a great career," commented senior Tanja Hasch.

DECA (Distributive Education Clubs of America) was a four-semester course offered to juniors and seniors. DECA helped students find employment in the field of marketing. This employment provided on-the-job training. DECA activities included competition in marketing skills and an employee-employer banquet at the end of the school year. Mr. Randy Smith was the DECA coordinator.

PVE was a work-study program directed. Patricia Frieders. Students in this program spent part of the school day in the classroom and part of the day on the job.

Student in all four of these groups received credit for both the classroom work and for their employment.

Using Talents

Many clubs at Manual, like Key Club, have few requirements, but the Brain Game, Chess Club, Audio-Visual Club, and Quill and Scroll require a certain degree of intelligence and dedication.

The Brain Game was sponsored by Mrs. Mary Thomas. The team practiced diligently until the day of competition. Unfortunately, the Redskin team was defeated by Lawrence Central.

The Chess Club, sponsored by Mr. Larry Helphenstine, provided a more relaxed atmosphere, while it still required the use of the mind in planning strategy.

The A-V Club was sponsored by Miss Helen Negley. It specialized in filming the activities around Manual. Members assisted teachers in using video equipment.

Quill and Scroll was an organization that honored high school journalists, and it was sponsored by Mrs. Kathryn Guignard. The members of the club were juniors and seniors who had served on the publications staff for at least two years.

The Key Club, sponsored by Mrs. Gayla Evans-Allen, was a service organization. In the past their activities ranged from helping the needy to sponsoring school dances.

All in all, these clubs contributed much to Manual's tradition of achievement.

A Boost of Spirit Helps

They were creative, dependable, enthusiastic, and dedicated to their sport. They did not spend hours practicing nor did they ever get yelled at by the coach. They didn't even have to worry about a questionable call from the officials. Yet they were "winners" at every athletic contest. Working behind the scenes or on the sidelines, the secret admirers, the wrestlerettes, and the trackettes were an important part of the Redskin sports program.

The trackettes worked at all the girls' and boys' home track meets. Their duties included holding the finish tape, announcing events, presenting ribbons, and keeping score.

The cheering of the wrestlerettes helped motivate the wrestlers to a winning season. To become a wrestlerette, the girls first had to pass a test about the sport of wrestling. Their duties for the season included keeping score, selling tickets, and cheering for the Redskin wrestlers.

There were secret admirers for the football, basketball, and wrestling teams. It wasn't always easy to keep their identity secret, but these girls did. On the day of a game, these girls decorated their player's locker and surprised their player with cookies, candy, or a cake.

Even though all of these groups were usually behind the scenes, and their hard work was not usually recognized, everyone knew who really kept the teams going and who had the Redskin spirit.

Training for Service

The Junior Reserve Officer Training Corpes, better known as JROTC, was one of the elective classes at Manual that provided many activities outside of class.

Under the leadership of Sgt. Bruce Blauvelt and Sgt. Thomas James the cadets learned the basics of the military.

Outside of the classroom, there were specialized groups for the cadets. These included the rangers, the rifle team, and the color guard units. These units performed several needed services around campus. They presented the colors at home athletic events, worked at the auction, Redskin Revue, and Parents in Touch. They also marched in the annual Veteran's Day parade in downtown Indianapolis.

In November some of the JROTC cadet ranger trainees went to Camp Atterbury to take part in a field training exercise. While there, they learned and met the qualifications to become rangers.

Ranger and color guard Mike Simpson commented, "To be a ranger you have to try to do your best at everything you do. The most important thing is to have a positive attitude."

First-year Head Coach Dennis Jackson discusses strategy with the offense during a time out.

Football Firsts

For the first time, the I.H.S.A.A. adopted a playoff system similar to the one used in basketball. In this new system every team received an even chance in the playoffs. In their first playoff game, Manual was defeated by Howe.

Although the season record may not indicate it, the Redskin varsity team had a good year. The team did not have the natural ability that other teams have had in the past, but each individual worked hard every week to develop his talents. The result of the team's labors, beginning in early August, was a hard-hitting, aggressive team that left their mark on their opponents.

The 'Skins young team also gained valuable experience for future seasons. Many sophomores and juniors were forced into starting positions due to a lack of players. Those players performed well, but in most cases, they could not match the experience of the opposition.

The freshmen faced a similar situation. They had a lot of size, but their lack of experience was a constant hindrance. The freshmen received praise from opposing coaches about their desire for physical play.

Reflecting on the season, Coach Dennis Jackson said, "Many goals that were set were reached or nearly reached with the exception of the won and loss column. I am most proud of these young men in that every varsity player remained eligible and, no matter how tough things got on the football field or at school, THEY NEVER QUIT. The excitement and anticipation of next year are already beginning. We feel we have laid the foundation and are building a very positive and successful program."

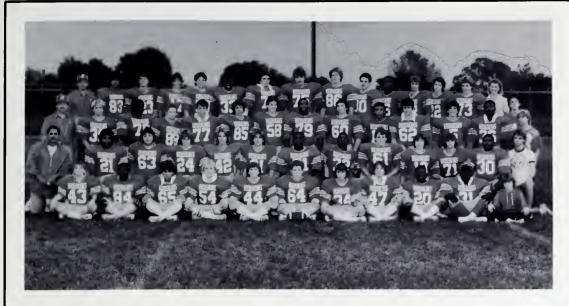

"I have played football all four years at Manual. My teammates are some of the best friends I have. I enjoy making good hits and clean tackles. The highlight of my football career came in my last high school game when I rushed for 110 yards against Howe in the playoffs."

A Season of Ups and Downs

"I enjoyed playing varsity volleyball this year. We had a really good team and should be exceptional next year," commented Junior Raynel Berry.

With eight wins and nine losses, the girls varsity volleyball team overcame obstacles caused by the construction work. They defeated such teams as Arlington, Attucks, Christian, Broad Ripple, and Washington. Due to the construction, the team played their home games at school #72.

The reserve team finished the season with a 6-8 record. "The girls were a pleasure to work with. They worked hard together and had fun learning the rules of the game. The attitude of the team was great; they kept trying even when they felt there was no hope," remarked Coach Karen Busch. "They played hard and won against Attucks, Marshall, Northwest, Broad Ripple, Christian, and Washington."

Coach Lawrie added, "Both teams should be competitive next fall." The girls look forward to practicing and playing in their new facilities.

Tennis Anyone?

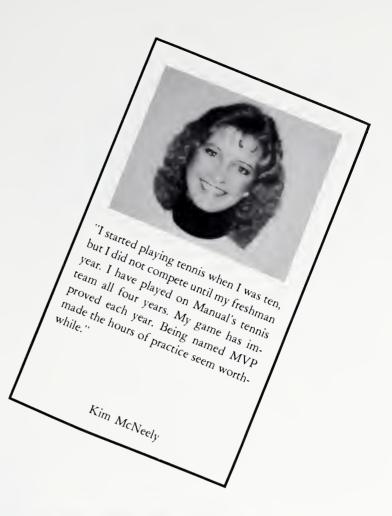

Both the boys' and the girls' tennis teams had a struggling season.

Although the 1985 girls' tennis team had only five players, Coach Kathryn Lawrie led the team to nearly a .500 season. The No. 1 singles player for the squad was 1985 graduate Shannon Cole, with junior Marlena Cole holding down the No. 2 seed. Kim McNeely, the girls' MVP was No. 3 seed, with Kim Corbett and Michelle McFarland taking the No. 1 doubles position.

"The team could have been better if more girls had been interested in playing," remarked Senior Michelle McFarland.

The boys' tennis team ended its season with an 8-6 record. This was an accomplishment since the team had only one senior. Playing No. 1 seed was senior Billy Hair. Holding down the No. 2 position was junior Adrian Otero. No. 3 seed was junior Scott Begley. The doubles teams consisted of No. 1 sophomores John Hurt and Bobby Gray, and Joey Howard and Ed Lyster.

First-year Coach John Hurt said, "We had only one senior; next year should be more promising."

Golfers and Harriers Gain Experience

The Redskin golf team spent the season gaining valuable experience in competition. In the I.P.S. tourney, they came in sixth out of nine teams with a score of 391. Senior Nick Cooper was the medalist.

First-year Coach Pack Craig commented, "We had a very young team. With one year behind me, I'll be able to do other things to better the team."

Manual's boys' cross country team posted a 5-6 record for the 1985 season. They defeated Arlington, Northwest, Scecina, Howe, and Marshall. The 'Skins placed seventh in the sectionals.

Coach Gary Butcher remarked, "I'm expecting a good group next year led by Ken Brickley, Darryl Whitlow, Ryan Booth, John Miller, and Joe Passios."

Senior Robert Rippey set a course record of 17:00 at Garfield Park

The girls' cross country team finished the season with a winning record of 7-3. Junior Mildred Fox commented, "Most of the schools we ran against had larger teams. Our opponents ranged from a one-member team from Northwest to a thirty-member team from Beech Grove."

Four of the girls earned their school letter. Senior Vickie McDonough was named MVP. "I was very excited because this was the first year we had enough girls to be considered a team," said Coach Kim McFall. "Overall, the girls did a fairly good job. I'd like to see more girls come out next year."

Golf: Joey Howard, Ralph Forey, Robert Grey, Nick Cooper, Coach Pack Craig.

Young Team Struggles

After losing all eleven members of last year's varsity basketball team, this year became a time to rebuild. To complicate the situation, the gym was not completed until after the season had begun.

Outstanding effort was turned in by sophomores Ed Darden and Mark West. Seniors Mike Ferguson, Don Beard, and Alan Major also made significant contributions. Winning the Southmont Classic at Crawfordsville put a new spark in the team.

The reserve team showed improvement with each game, compiling a 7-4 record for the season. "This year's team has overcome more obstacles than any team I have coached," remarked coach Fred Belser.

DURING A TIME OUT, Coach Fred Belser gives important advice to his players.

OPEN FOR THE SHOT, senior Mike Ferguson takes aim for two points.

MAINTAINING BALL CONTROL, sophomore Mark West dribbles around his Roncalli opponent.

"Ever since I was little, I've wanted to play for Manual. All my sisters and my brother went here, so I've been coming to Manual's games for a long time. Girls Post Winning Season

The varsity girls' basketball team finished their season with a 9-8 record. According to Coach Tim Boykin, the record does not give an accurate reflection of the season.

When asked about the team's performance, Coach Boykin commented, "The team worked very hard and the girls were known as competitors. The season provided a learning experience, and the players were well aware of what it takes to be a top competitor. Young players received a lot of exposure to competition.

The team had some rebuilding to do since four starting players were lost to graduation, including MVP Tammy Cox. Overall, this team was fairly young with only three seniors on the team roster. The three senior players were Damita Stubbs, Yvette Johnson, and Vickie McDonough.

According to Coach Boykin, "Seniors do realize the sacrifice involved. All of them contributed to a successful season. Their absence will be felt."

After getting off to a slow start, things began to turn around. The 'Skins scalped a win at Arlington's expense and chalked up another victory over Scecina. Other teams who lost to the Redskins were Northwest, Broad Ripple, Washington, Marshall, and Attucks.

Sectional hopes disappeared when the girls were defeated in their opening game.

The dedication and hard work the girls put in this year should make them a more mature and more competitive team next year.

"I decided to play basketball at Manual so that I could accomplish something for my school. I have reached most of the goals that I set for myself. I have improved the most in sportsmanship. I am glad I was able to participate in basketball all four years. The game I remember most was the game with Howe when our team got second place in the tournament."

Tribe Rebuilds for '86

The 1985 Redskin varsity base-ball squad suffered through its worst season, compiling a 5-21 record. Although the number of loses kept the season from being a memorable one, the year was not without a few highlights for outstanding individual effort. One such highlight was watching 1985 graduate Trai Majors patrol center field, making crucial catches to prevent the opponent from scoring. Another bright spot of the season was watching MVP James Pruett, junior, swing a "mean" stick for a .319 batting average. He was the only Redskin to hit over .300 this season.

Looking forward to the 1986 season, the baseball team will have ten returning letter winners. Coach Bill Rosenstihl commented, "With a season of summer ball under their belts, I am looking forward to an exciting season."

The 1986 season will be led by a strong pitching staff of juniors Mark Van Horn and James Pruett and seniors Danny Johnston and John Barron. The team batting average of .194 leaves much room for improvement.

Team Builds for the Future

The 1985 girls' softball season marked the first year that the 'Skins had not only a varsity squad, but also a reserve squad. The reserve team consisted entirely of freshmen, but they competed against other reserve teams that were made up of freshmen, sophomores, and even juniors. Although this was a young and inexperienced team, they did well, finishing with a 4-7 record.

"The team has great potential," said Coach Dianne Ritchie. "They are dedicated and they work hard."

The varsity squad finished the season with nearly a 500 record of 6-7. The team was young, consisting of only three seniors, Cindy Hood, Judy St. John, and three-year MVP Tammy Cox.

For the first time, the varsity team was sanctioned by the I.H. S.A.A. This made the Redskins eligible for the state competition, beginning with the sectionals. Unfortunately, the girls were defeated in the sectionals.

Junior Sherry Cox commented, "Next year should be very promising. We only lost three players to graduation. With the sophomores who will be joining the varsity squad, we should be very competitive."

Another Winning Season

Manual's 1985 boys' track team posted another winning season. It marked the thirtieth consecutive winning season for Manual's boys' track team under Coach "Moe" Moriarity. The 1985 team sprinted their way to seven wins and five losses.

The two outstanding team members were '85 graduates Terrance Stubbs and Charles Hall. Stubbs was both the city champion and the sectional champion in the 100 meter and the 200 meter dashes. Hall won the 400 meter in both the city and the sectional.

The reserve track team finished another strong season with a nearperfect record of 11-1. The freshmen won both relays in the city meet.

A Winning Season

Spring is the time to be outdoors, to run and to compete. The girls track team is no exception. Even before it was warm enough to practice outside, this dedicated group of girls could be seen around school going through conditioning routines so that when the season began, they would be ready. And ready they were.

The girls track team had another outstanding season in 1985. Head coach Dorothy Powell and assistant coach Tim Boykin led the Lady 'Skins to a very respectable season of 7-3, defeating such teams as Broad Ripple, Arlington, Washington, and Scecina. This 7-3 season was the best record in the eight-year history of Manual's girls track.

Among the returning veterans were Danita McClendon and 1985 Co-MVP's Yvette Johnson and Wanda Reaves. Yvette did an outstanding job in 1985, which included setting a new school record of 5'6" in the high jump. She did this while finishing sixth at the State Track Meet.

Junior Kathy McHugh, a strong distance runner, commented, "We began the 1985 track season with a lot of hard work and dedication. It really paid off when we ended the season with the best girls track record ever."

The girls finished fifth in the City Meet and 34th in the State Track Meet. Coach Powell praised her girls by remarking, "We had a very successful year — our best finish ever. I'm very proud of the hard work and dedication of the girls this year. Most of them will be returning next year. Hopefully we will be even stronger during the upcoming season."

THE MEMBERS OF THE Manual girls track team take time out to celebrate their winning season.

"I feel I have accomplished a lot in track. In the summer of 1984 I leaped a 17'5", which was almost the school record. I hope to break the school record in 1986. I participate in track because I enjoy running. It keeps me in good shape, and I really enjoy what I do. The highlight of my career was when the 400 relay team went to the State. We worked hard just to get there. We placed 5th. That was the happiest moment of my life."

Redskin Spirit

An athlete may participate in a sport for one season, but the cheerleaders are active throughout the school year. In the warmth of the summer and in the crisp coolness of the fall, the Manual cheerleaders practiced many hours. Everyone showed pride and devotion as they cheered for the Redskin teams.

The cheerleaders for 1985-86 were chosen in the spring by representatives of the student body and the faculty. Being chosen is just the beginning.

The cheerleaders attended cheerleading camp at I.U. for four days during the summer. The varsity squad received a trophy and both squads won spirit sticks and ribbons.

With enthusiasm and devotion, the cheerleaders led the crowd in a number of cheers at all the games and showed the spirit which was needed for a Redskin victory. Even when the Redskin team was losing, the girls tried their best to keep up the morale.

"Cheerleading, to me, has been a real experience and a lot of fun. It has allowed me to become close to the people on the squad," said Tracey Wright.

The Boostermen are junior and senior athletes who perform with the cheerleaders during the basketball season. "I am glad I got to be a Boosterman," said Doug Williams. "It was worth the time and effort."

A Proud Tradition

Homecoming 1985 — a time of excitement. From the events of spirit week to the crowning of King Derrick Huskie and Queen Kim McNeely, Redskin pride flowed throughout the school.

Tradition played a large part in Homecoming. Masoma sold and delivered mums while the Student Affairs Board constructed a float entitled "Cremate the Cardinals." The seniors, for the second consecutive year, built and decorated a platform for the royal court to stand on. The papooses representing the freshman class gave Manual's newest addition to the school a chance to play a large role in the special event.

Many special events also made their debut at Homecoming '85. Eighty alumni band members, one from as far away as California, came to join the present band in a combined half-time show. Also for the first time, the PTO sponsored a fish fry prior to the ballgame against southside rival Southport.

After the anticipation and excitement of the preparations and the actual Homecoming ceremonies, the final result of the football game seemed irrelevant, for each spectator left the game filled with the old familiar Redskin pride.

Grapplers Pin to Win

The Redskin wrestlers posted a winning season with a 9-7 record. For veteran varsity coach Al Pike, this was a very unique season. "They were the youngest and the smallest squad I ever coached," he commented.

In spite of their size and inexperience, the Redskin wrestlers proved to be very competitive.

In addition to their winning record, they finished second in the Tech Invitational, fifth in the Bloomington Invitational, sixth in the city Tourney, and third in the sectional tournament.

The only two seniors on the squad were Danny Johnston and Tony Parson. Junior Ron Perry turned in the best record of the season with 25 wins and only 5 losses.

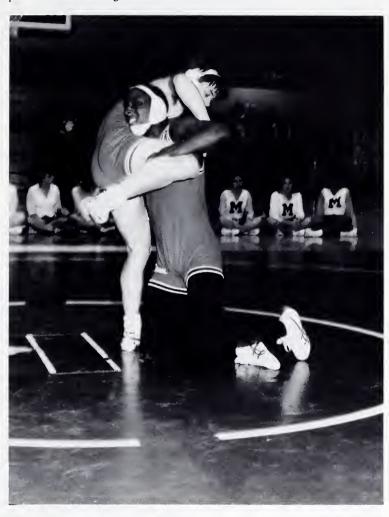

Under coach Eric Young, this year's freshmen turned in a very successful season.

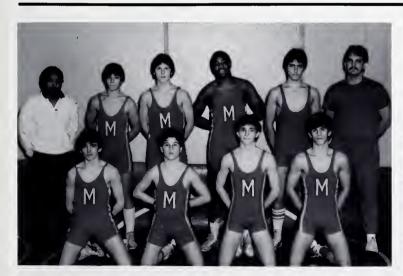

Reflecting on the season, Coach Pike said, "I really feel that we had a young team that improved tremendously."

"My step-brother talked me into wrestling since I was too small to play basketball. I have learned good self-discipline and weight control. Winning the freshman city championship was the highlight of my career. I came close to other championships, but I had to settle for 2nd place."

A Winning Sound

Instrumental music is an important part of the school year for many talented Redskins. The music department boasts four performing groups in this area.

After working so hard for many long hours, the Manual Marching Band proved that it had what it took to be No. 1. In the fall, the band provided the halftime show for the home football games. At homecoming, the band was joined by alumni to give spectators a special treat.

The band traveled to Charlestown, Indiana to compete in the Southern Indiana Marching Band Festival, Class A Division. Under the direction of Mr. Bruce Smith, the Redskins were declared winners in their class. At this contest the Crimson Guard was judged as outstanding in their unit.

At the Middletown, Ohio Marching Band Festival, both the band and the Crimson Guard placed second.

The band was led by drum major Teresa Eggert; Christy Lewis was the captain of the Crimson Guard and Gayle Romack was their instructor. Both the Pep Band and the Crimson Guard entertained at home basketball games.

The orchestra, directed by Mrs. Marilyn Bolin, played Christmas music for Manualites in December. They also performed at the May Music Festival.

Choirs Provide the Manual Sound

Manual's music department had three performing vocal groups: Glee Club, Manualaires, and Concert Choir. These groups entertained at Manual, but they also performed for many organizations in the Manual community. All three groups sang at the annual May Festival.

The Concert Choir, directed by Mr. Tom Williams, was a group comprised of both boys and girls. This group's activities for the year included singing on Monument Circle in December and entertaining at nursing homes and at several nearby elementary schools.

Manualaires, a singing and dancing group, was also directed by Mr. Williams. The fourteen members of this swinging group spent many hours perfecting their routines. In their classy tuxedo outfits, they represented their school well.

Singing at nursing homes and schools and participating in contests were just a few of the activities of the Glee Club. Under the direction of Mrs. Marilyn Bolin, this group of girls was kept busy.

These vocal groups gave students an opportunity to develop their musical talents. They also gave the students a sense of belonging.

"I feel that Glee Club helps others as well as myself. When we went to the nursing homes to entertain, I knew it was worth all the effort that we had put forth," said Angie Harville, senior.

THE GIRLS IN Glee Club vocalize to warm up before a practice session.

Famous Duos: Fact and Fiction

Ma and Pa Kettle, Miami Mice, and Tarzan and Jane were the famous duos portrayed in this year's Redskin Revue.

In addition to the Redskin Revue, three one-act plays directed by students were presented during the school year.

The 57th annual Redskin Revue contained all the excitement and magic as those in years past. Ma and Pa traveled to Egypt in "Egyptian Fantasy," an act written by Mike Kelly and Tom Laureman, seniors.

In "Jungle Madness," an act written by senior William Echols and sophomore Dawn Haapala, Tarzan and Jane fought toxic waste in the jungle.

Miami Mice battled the cheesesmuggling operation in Miami in the act "Miami Mice," written by juniors Brian Lakstins, Sheryl Davis, and Laura Mouser.

Act writer Mike Kelly said, "Even though participation was down, I believe all of the students felt it was a rewarding experience."

The three one-act plays, "The Twelve-Pound Look," "Ghost for Rent," and "Soldadera," were presented in the mini-aud for the first time. Student director Teresa Eggert said, "Presenting the plays in the mini-aud created a few unique problems, but it was a good-size for the audience."

Although hampered by construction delays, Mr. Fred Bennett continued to develop the drama department for interested Redskins.

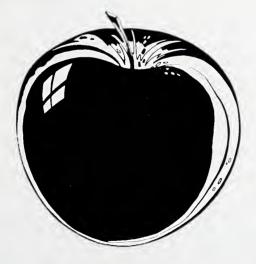

Allum

It Was the Best of Times . . .

Friends are important. They are our backbone; without them we would certainly collapse. Manual has helped me create friendships worth keeping.

Robby Bruce

Manual is a great school. My four years have been the most fun and educational time in my life. I'd recommend attending Manual to everyone.

Amy Sholders

The best part about my four years was being in Tstead's room for three years for different things. He really knows how to make you feel real good about yourself and everyone around you.

Frank Morgan

I certainly have enjoyed my four years at Manual. I hope others will have as much as I did. You only get out of something what you put into it.

Lamont Austin

My four years at Manual have been great. I've enjoyed it a lot. I just wish we had some of our activities back. Good luck to the Class of '86.

Lisa Montgomery

My four years at Manual have been very special. I have enjoyed having all of the teachers I have had. My friends are very special to me.

Angie Harville

Manual has been good to me. I think it's the best high school in the city. As I leave, I'll blow a big kiss to this wonderful school that I shall miss.

Johnny Growell

The four years I've spent at Manual have been memorable ones. The memories of the activities I've been in and the friends that I have made along the way will last a lifetime.

Teresa Eggen

This is the best hotel that I've ever slept in.

Toby Merida

At first four years seemed like forever. But these four years went by the fastest and were, by far, the best four years of my life.

Steve Minton

I believe that your senior year is the best year of high school. It's the last year you have that you can throw away a lot of responsibility before you go out into the "real" world.

Mike Kelly

Even though some things haven't gone really well this year, I have enjoyed my senior year. My friends have made the time I've spent at Manual fantastic or, failing that, at least exciting.

Kelly Bray

My senior year has been the best year of my life. I will always remember this year throughout my life. Thanks Manual.

Connie Pittman

The thing I'll miss the most about Manual is the "family" atmosphere. Over the years at Manual you begin to consider it your second home. It will be hard to step away from that.

Dawn Whitaker

Out of all my years at Manual, my senior year was the best. I really hate to leave Manual. I'm going to miss it. I'll always remember Manual High School.

Shellie Cox

My years have been very memorable. I really don't want to leave, but I must move forward.

Todd Liggins

Though many things were denied our class, my senior year will forever be a high point of my life.

Susie Handlon

What I will remember most about Manual is getting together with all my friends and the good times we had together.

Diana Butler

Out of the four years I've been at Manual, my senior year has been the best. I'm really going to hate leaving Manual in June. I will remember my school always and I will be proud to be a Manual graduate.

Tammy Soubeih

My senior year at Manual has been a terrific year for me. It feels good to know that I am going to be a Manual graduate. It has been fun getting to know everyone. They really showed what the Redskin spirit is.

Koni Eby

The thing I will miss from Manual is being with my friends.

Tina Groves

My three years at Manual have been wonderful. Since I've been at Manual I have really advanced my education. I'll never forget what Manual has done for me. Manual will always be remembered by me.

Angela Armstrong

I can really say my three years at Manual have been fun and exciting. I give thanks to those who made Manual feel like a home to me. These people know who they are.

Anissa Armstrong

I would consider my four high school years at Manual a lifetime experience.

Teresa McHenry

I have really enjoyed being a senior class officer. Even though many of our privileges have been taken away, my fellow officers and I tried to make the senior year as much fun as we possibly could.

Stacy Pinner

I have enjoyed my years at Manual. I hope that the future seniors enjoy theirs

Monica Pitzer

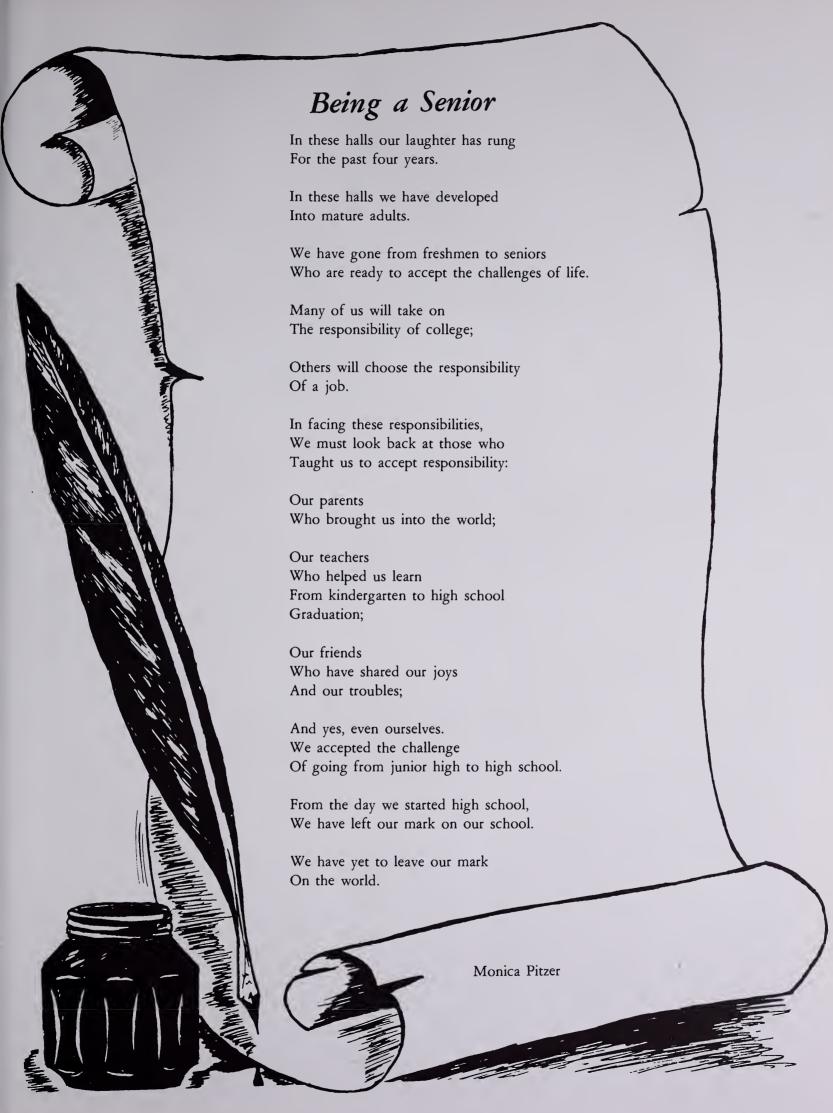

My four years here at Manual have been exciting, serious, and sometimes boring. I have met and made numerous friends. Overall my years here have made me achieve half of my academic goals for the future. Sheila McFarland

Manual has helped me not only in learning more, but it also changed my attitude toward things in general. I am glad I came to Manual. I don't think I would have liked any other school.

Tanja Hasch

My four years at Manual have been interesting. I can honestly saw I have grown mentally and socially during the four years.

Felicia Sargent

Seniors Make Plans

The long awaited year had finally arrived — the senior year. For most of the members of the Class of 1986, the four years of high school had gone by rapidly.

Soon after school began in September, the seniors and their class sponsor, Mr. Dennis Jackson, began making preparations for the last year of high school.

The senior class officers for 1986 were Debra Hurt, president; Stacy Pinner, vice-president; Michelle Long, secretary; and Steve Minton, treasurer.

The senior council, the governing body of the class, met regularly throughout the school year to plan the year's activities and make important decisions about graduation.

The members of the senior council selected the graduation announcements for the class. They CLAPPING to get the band's attention is drum major Teresa Eggert, senior.

also planned two senior days, one in the fall and one in the spring. The class held a senior breakfast before school on the senior day in the fall.

The council also decided to return to the tradition of having a separate senior prom. They chose the prom site, the band and the theme.

The seniors watched the construction and remodeling of their school with mixed emotions. Most seniors were happy that Manual was getting a face-lift, but they also expressed disappointment that they would not have an opportunity to use the new football field, the new gymnasium, or the other new facilities.

Juniors Stay Active

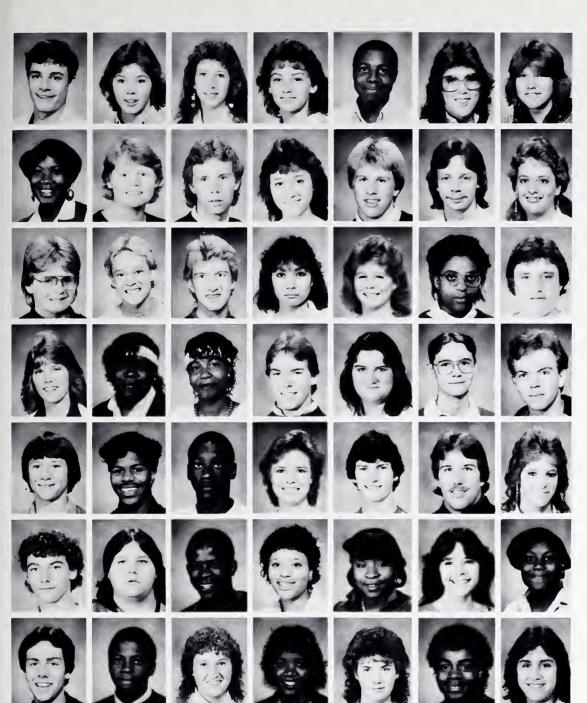

The Class of 1987 found their junior year to be a welcome change from their previous two years at Manual. They were no longer underclassmen; they were JUNIORS.

Many juniors played major roles in activities at Manual. Others just looked forward to their senior year. "The best thing about the junior year was that is was just one year away from the big one — the senior year!" commented junior Leeah Woods.

For the Class of '87, it was a year filled with activities like dressing up on Junior Day, decorating the school Christmas tree, buying junior sweatshirts, and electing class officers for the first time.

Serving as officers of the junior class were president, Kathy McHugh; vice-president, Raynel Berry; secretary, Mildred Fox; and treasurer, Karen Romine.

Sophomores on the Rise

For sophomores, this was a year filled with new responsibilities and new experiences. Gone are the embarrassing times of being sent to the wrong room for simply asking directions of an upperclassman. Gone, too, are the times of being called a "freshie" or just being scared. For sophomore Matthew Bordon, "The best part of being a sophomore is that you are not a freshman anymore."

The sophomore year was a time to look forward to several welcome changes. Since high school had become more of a routine, many sophomores looked forward to turning sixteen. For some, this meant taking on the responsibility of a part-time job; for others, it meant taking driver's education and getting that driver's license.

Unfortunately some sophomores just looked forward to being sixteen so they could quit school and end their formal education, if only for a short while. A number of sophomores who quit school either re-enrolled or gave evening school a try.

For most sophomores the schedule of classes was fairly routine. English, science, and math were required classes. Energetic and active sophomores showed their school spirit in a variety of ways. Some found time in their day to participate in sports, take an active part in clubs and school organizations, and serve as messengers and student assistants.

The sophomore class was the only class that did not have at least one organized class activity. Tony Grizzle, sophomore, expressed the feeling of most sophomores when he remarked, "The good thing about being a sophomore is knowing that next year you will be an upperclassman."

Freshmen Meet the Challenge

Traditionally, the freshman year is a time for teasing and pranking. Most newcomers to the Redskin family survived this part of their year. Freshman Becky Anderson commented, "I really don't mind being a freshman because we all have to start somewhere." Most freshmen viewed their first year of high school with optimism. "I think the best part of being a freshman at Manual is that we still have three years of school here," remarked freshman Chris Messer. Echoing his sentiments, Robin Spalding said, "The best thing about being a freshman this year is that everything is new. I have new classes, teachers, friends, and even a new gym!"

Teachers Adapt to Changes

Although the interior of Manual High School changed, the friendliness and professionalism of the faculty and staff did not. This year, teachers faced a number of obstacles to the school day as the construction and remodeling continued throughout the school year, but they accepted these inconveniences and adjusted so that students would not lose valuable classroom time.

The Redskin teaching staff acquired several new faces for the 1985-86 school year: Mrs. Marjorie Burford, home economics; Mr. Leon Elder, mathematics; and Mr. Richard Riker, social studies. These teachers quickly adapted to the Redskin way of life and seemed happy to be a part of the Manual High School faculty. Miss Debbie

Arthur also came to Manual this year as a clerk in the media center. One of the new teachers, Mrs. Marjorie Burford commented, "The Manual faculty and staff are very helpful and the students are, too."

There were other changes within the Manual staff. Mr. Ray Schultz, who took over as Manual's new athletic director, remarked, "When the remodeling is finished, Manual will be the best looking high school in Indianapolis." Mr. Dennis Jackson replaced Mr. Schultz as head football coach after having been an assistant coach for several years.

We gained some teachers and we lost some to retirement, but the Manual staff continued to live up to the qualities of good teaching.

Acknowledgements

Time passes — but the memories remain. The 1986 Ivian staff would like to thank the following people who helped us capture these memories of 1986 for this yearbook: Mr. Larry Glaze, our Herff-Jones representative; Root Photographers, our official senior photographer; Mr. Dick Dickus of Root Photographers; and Mr. John Higgins and Interstate Studios, our underclass photographers.

Additional thanks go to Mr. John Hurt, who volunteered to photograph some school events for us, often on rather short notice.

We also acknowledge those students who let us borrow their pictures, especially Rachel Haley, who let us borrow her pictures of girls' track when ours were lost in the remodeling program.

Without the efforts of many students, this yearbook would not have been possible.

Celebration '86

The Athletic Department and Athletic Booster Club sponsored the first auction of its kind at Man-

The evening began with a chili supper and a walk-through open house of the new athletic facility.

The main event of the evening included a silent auction as well as the regular auction.

The purpose of the auction was to raise money to equip the new facility. "This auction is an example of what we can do if we all work together," said Mr. Ray Schultz in reflecting on the successful evening.

JUNIOR Kristi Schwert holds up the next item for bidding.

MANUAL GRADUATE and auctioneer, Tom Mascari takes bids at the auction.

MANUAL'S FIRST auction attracts students, parents, alumni, and people from the community.

SHOWING THEIR SCHOOL SPIRIT, Mr. Jack Brown, counselor, and Miss Charlotte Hafer, secretary, work at the auction.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR, Mr. Ray Schultz, announces the next item to go up for bids.

MEMBERS OF THE MARCHING BAND, Robby Bruce, John Hurt, and Tony Conwell, provide lively entertainment for auction goers.

REGISTRAR Mrs. Dorothea Frazee works on a transcript for a former Manual student.

DEAN OF GIRLS Miss Lou Man stops her record keeping long enough to take a telephone call from an interested parent.

THE SMILE OF Mrs. Anna Collins, school nurse, makes an ailing student feel better.

ATTENNCE CLERK Mrs. Jean Neely checks her absence list with the attendance cards to be sure the records are accurate.

AS THE PRINCIPAL'S SECRETARY, Miss Charlotte Hafer makes sure things run as smoothly as possible.

DEAN OF BOYS Mr. Gerald Root asks student assistants senior Bekki Sauer and sophomore Valerie Lewis to locate a boy he needs to talk with.

BUDGET CLERK Mrs. Joan Bennett phones a supplier to double-check on an order for equipment.

SOCIAL WORKER, Mr. Gerald Swinford serves as a link between school and home for the Manual students.

IBM CLERK Mrs. Bernadine Abel makes sure students receive a schedule and a report card on time.

They Keep Things Running Smoothly

At some time during the school year, nearly every student had a need to call upon a staff member to get help for a special problem.

The two deans were responsible for student attendance and discipline. Mrs. Jean Neely kept lengthy attendance records for the school.

Mrs. Dorothea Frazee and Mrs. Bernadine Able were responsible for keeping student records of achievement up-to-date.

Mr. Gerald Swinford helped students deal with a variety of problems, while Mrs. Anna Collins kept students health records and took care of students who became ill during their school day.

These people spent their day working to help Redskins make the most of the opportunities at Mannal.

Lights Camera Action

This year Indiana was the scene for the filming of a movie about a fictional high school basketball team.

Filmed in many different high schools in central Indiana, "Hoosiers" told the story of Hoosier Hysteria. Gene Hackman produced the movie and also starred in it.

Laura Robling, 1985 graduate, was cast as one of the cheerleaders in the movie. Other Redskins were given a chance to be in the movie. For the segment that was filmed at Hinkle Fieldhouse at Butler University, Manual students were invited to be spectators at the game. Boys wearing flat tops and girls with poodle skirts and bobby sox took advantage of this unique opportunity.

AMONG THE MANY Redskins participating in filming of "Hoosiers" are junior Kathy McHugh and graduates Kim Bray, Kathy Yeager, and Mrs. Sandy Schultz.

THE SOUTHLAND CENTRAL team is one of the teams playing for the State Championship in the movie.

LAURA ROBLING, 1985 graduate, and Steve Schultz, 1984 graduate, put their acting abilities to work in the movie "Hoosiers."

JUNIOR Bryan Wiley gets a 50's style flattop for the movie.

CAST AS ONE of the mayors in the movie is Indianapolis Mayor William Hudnut.

CREW MEMBERS from the movie set up equipment before the actors arrive.

DISPLAYING THE TEAM BANNER for their fictional team are junior Kathy McHugh and graduate Laura Robling.
